A man may say or think what he pleases but just the same, personal appearance cuts a big figure in success. A well-dressed, neat, clean looking man, with the fresh countenance of health, will, other things being equal, outstrip the man who isn't wholesome-looking. Many men imagine that hard work—"hustling" they call it—counts for everything. In the long run the easy-going man, who takes time to think of his health and his personal appearance outstrips the reckless, neglectful "hustler." Many men are held back in the struggle of life by their personal appearance. Through neglect of the digestion their blood gets full of impurities and humors which show themselves on the face and body in the shape of skin affections, blotches, eruptions, eczema and scrofula.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery drives all impurities from the blood and cures all forms of skin affections. It is the great blood purifier, liver invigorator and flesh builder. It corrects all disorders of the digestion. Thousands have testified to its merits. Druggists sell it.

Wm. Swothers, Esq., of Millston, Jackson, Co., Wis., writes: "I wish to say that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine for the grip that I have ever tried."

"Health is the best endowment" and a health-preserver the best investment. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser teaches women how to take care of the health of every member of the family. It saves doctors' bills. It contains 1008 pages, over 400 illustrations. Several chapters are devoted to the reproductive physiology of women and diseases that unfit young women for wifehood and young wives for motherhood. For paper-covered copy, send 21-cent stamps, to cover the cost of mailing only, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. For fine cloth binding, send 10 cents extra, 31 cents in all.

TIMING BIG PROJECTILES.

How Their Initial Velocity Is Calculated In Tests at Sandy Hook.

To the layman one of the interesting features in a big gun test is the method by which the initial velocity of the projectile is calculated. When he hears that the modern high power guns often expel a shot at an initial velocity of 2,000 feet per second, a rate that if sustained would mean a mile in three seconds, he realizes the difficulty of calculating the speed. An ordnance officer must have accurate knowledge of the velocity of the shot, that he may predict its range and penetration and determine the accuracy of the gun. It is a comparatively easy matter, however, with the new instruments to calculate accurately the initial velocity of a projectile. It is by one who is fortunate enough to visit a military lock when big guns are being tested how it is done.

At a recent test on a 100 foot range at Sandy Hook, N. J., where the new 12 inch guns were being tested, the writer was permitted to see the method by which the initial velocity of the projectile was calculated. The wires in each section form a complete electric circuit, which includes also an electric battery and an electric magnet. The projectile, after leaving the gun, flies through the wire in the first section, interrupting the circuit and releasing the armature of the magnet. In a space of time so small as to be hardly conceivable the projectile has covered the distance between the two frames and pierced the wire in the second, interrupting its electric current and releasing the armature of its magnet, as in the first case. The interval between the drop of these two armatures represents the time spent by the projectile in traveling 100 feet. This time is indicated by the chronograph in the laboratory near by. Wires run from each section to the laboratory, which is fitted up with batteries and switchboards.

The armature of the first electro magnet is on an iron rod about 3 feet long, which is suspended vertically. This rod falls when the second electro magnet is placed a little below the first, and when it is released it acts as a knife, and, striking the side of the falling rod, makes a slight mark. The distance of this cut or mark from the end of the rod indicates the distance through which the rod has dropped while the projectile is passing from one section to another. This forms the unit for the calculation of the projectile's velocity in feet per second. New explosives and high power guns have increased the initial velocity of projectiles wonderfully in the last few years. Projectiles may be expelled now with a force that will make them effective at a range far beyond ordinary eyesight.—New York Sun.

Roman Epicures.

When at its zenith, the Roman empire laid all the barbaric countries of the world under contribution to supply the tables of its nobles and wealthy citizens with the fine luxuries of life. Asia and Africa poured in the rich spices and fruits of the tropics; Germany and the great north countries raised the grains and wild berries; Italy and the fertile land of the Franks cultivated the vineyards to make or export the wines; every strip of seacoast from the Mediterranean to the Baltic contributed its quota of fish, and the forests of Brittany yielded the wild game of the woods—birds, beasts and fowls—for the banquets of the proud, dissolute rulers of the vast empire. With the choice products of a great world so easily obtained there were wanton waste, foolish extravagance and a strange disregard of the value of expensive luxuries, and the historian dwelling upon these times delights in recapitulating the various articles of diet arranged in tempting manner upon the groaning tables at the great feasts and banquets.

But, excepting Nero's dish of peacock tongues and Cleopatra's cup of wine with the dissolved pearls in it, the menu of our modern banquets would compare favorably with those spread in the times when gluttony, licentiousness and greed for luxury were insidiously snapping the strength of Rome.—George E. Walsh in Lippincott's.

NOBLES' REVENGE.

HE GOT EVEN WITH THE AUTHOR OF THE SPECIAL DELIVERY STAMP.

The Actor's Letter of Congratulations to Postmaster General Vilas Withdrawn For Excellent Reasons, Which Appear In This Story.

When Nobles, the actor and author, and Senator Vilas were schoolmates in Madison 25 years ago, and they went from the schoolhouse to the war together, Nobles thinks a good deal of his old schoolmate and is proud of the distinction he has won among the great men of his party.

When the special delivery stamp made its appearance, Senator Vilas, who was then postmaster general, received many complimentary letters, among them one from Nobles. The rest of the story is best told by the author himself:

"When I wrote this letter of congratulation to the general, I hadn't had occasion to use or receive any of the stamps, but the idea seemed to me to be a good one. I was spending a week at home in Brooklyn at the time. One bitter morning about 3 o'clock I was awakened by what seemed to me to be the ringing of all the fire bells in Brooklyn. Showing my head out of the second story window, I could see a muffled figure on the steps below jerking the bell with savage fury. 'What is it?' I asked. At that moment the bell wire broke, and the figure fell backward down the steps. The snow was knee deep, and the wind was blowing 50 miles an hour. As the figure rolled down the steps I could hear some choice specimens of explosive English in a familiar accent, mingled with something about 'letter, special delivery. After removing chains and bolts opened the outer door, and the messenger blew into the vestibule in a sheet of snow.

"What is it? What have you got?"

"Letter."

"What the Helen Blakes are you bringing a letter here for at this time of night?"

"Special delivery, sir, please."

"I backed into the hall and slid my hand all over the wall, trying to find the match box. The vestibule was full of snow, and I had commenced sneezing.

"Come in and shut the door!" I yelled. Bang went the door and out went my match just as I had got the gas turned on. The messenger braced up against me in the hall, stepped on my toes and shook a shovel full of snow at his shoulder about my feet, filling my slippers and dropping down my back. I finally succeeded in getting the gas signing the back, pushing the messenger out and bolting the door. Then I went up stairs with my pipe. I examined the long blue stamp carefully. It was the first one that I had received. Then I devoted about five minutes to wondering what the diabolical was all about. After a time it occurred to me to open it and see. The handwriting was unknown, but the refrain was familiar. Here it is:

"SANDY HOOK, N. J., Jan. 19.

"Dear Sir: You will doubtless be surprised as receiving this letter from an entire stranger. But I feel that I was born to be an actor.

"I am but 22, 5 feet 6, light curly hair, blue eyes and have played several parts with the Shubert Amateur society. I enclose notices. My family object to my going on the stage, but I feel that it is my duty, and as I would only join a first class company my friends urged me to write to you. Should like to play several parts. I saw you play in Milwaukee last fall. Can come any time. I have also written a play. Could you lend me $25? Yours to command, L. A. J. JONES.

(Stage name—E. Forrest Melchotte.)

"P. S.—The new special delivery stamp has just got here, and I put one on to see how it works.

"By the time I had finished reading this letter I had a chill. Three hours later I had such a cold that I could not open my eyes. I remained in my room for treatment for three days. On the fourth day I became convalescent, and the first labor I performed was the writing of the following letter:

"BROOKLYN, Jan. 20.

"Hon. W. F. Vilas, Postmaster General, Washington:

"Dear Sir—Quite recently, in a moment of unguarded enthusiasm, I wrote you a letter congratulating you upon the brilliant success of genius made manifest in the promulgation of the special delivery stamp.

"Recent events have given me a wider knowledge of the subject and opened my eyes to the pernicious consequences likely to follow your gigantic blunder.

"I desire to withdraw my letter and enter a protest against your making any use of the same as an apparent endorsement of your new departure or with a view to your securing a situation in the future. This need not necessarily interfere with our friendship, but between friendship and business the line must be drawn somewhere, and I choose, for reasons conclusive to myself, to draw it at the 3 a. m. special delivery. Very truly yours,

"STUPID NOBLES.

"I cut the special delivery stamp from the Shubertogian letter and pasted it on the envelope, and, enclosing both in another letter, I sent them to a friend in Washington with a few lines of explanation and instruction. The next stormy night my friend, following instructions, hired a special messenger, and at 3 p. m. he began ringing Postmaster General Vilas' doorbell. First a servant came, then the general's secretary, but the messenger was firm; he must see the general. Thinking probably that war had been declared in Haiti and a midnight session of the cabinet called, the general slipped on a ulster on over his nightshirt and went down to the door. The messenger shoved the letter into his hand and bolted on a double quick.

"The obnoxious stamp has not been called in, but I had my revenge on the postmaster general."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Obtaining.

"Madam," said Meandering Mike, "hev ye got any cold coffee?"

"No," replied young Mrs. Torkins in a tone of sympathy, "but you wait a few minutes and I'll put some in the refrigerator and cool it for you."—Washington Star.

Lioness and Puppy.

Here is a tale of a strange animal friendship told by a writer in a recent issue of The Westminster Gazette. The story is unique. According to the writer, a lioness that was kept in captivity in Somaliland adopted a bull terrier. There were several bull terrier puppies near the place where she was confined, and once in while the little fellows would come close to the cage. Then she would stand, and the puppies would scamper back, but there was one that seemed to have the good will of the lioness, for one day when he approached the cage, instead of growling, she showed signs of friendliness.

The puppy was encouraged, and after a while he was allowed to walk boldly in. In the presence of the keeper, who was expecting to see the puppy quickly killed, the lioness stretched out her huge paw and gently drew the dog in. The little fellow was delighted with his reception, and he snuggled into her warm fur and has remained with her ever since. The curious thing is that the lioness will have nothing to do with the other puppies. If they come to the cage to see how their little brother is getting along, she growls at them in tones so loud and menacing that they are frightened off. Meanwhile the adopted puppy is treated by the lioness just as if he were a cub of her own.

A Weathercock Made by Paul Revere.

In talking down the steeple of the old Methodist church in Watertown, which the Young Men's Catholic association is remodeling for its use, the historic old weathercock on top of the steeple had to be removed. He is 2 1/2 feet high, with a powder body and copper tail, and is said to have been made by Paul Revere when about 20 years old. It is said that the weathercock was originally placed in 1758, on the old church building that was demolished in 1837. There is some dispute about his ownership, the Unitarians claiming that he was simply loaned to the Methodists when the latter built their church in 1847, while the Methodists claim that they bought him from the town. He will probably be presented to the Watertown Historical society.—Boston Transcript

To Rid the House of Black Nuts.

You may exterminate black nuts by first keeping out of their reach all sweets. Stand your cake and sugar boxes in a pan of water, then around the shelves put either lavender, ground cloves, or, better, camphor.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Paper of the Oxford Bibles.

The paper making for Oxford Bibles is a specially important and interesting part of the work. At Wolvercote, a mile or two out of Oxford, the university has a large mill for the supply of its own requirements. A good deal of the paper they turn out here is used for old ships' sails, the material being left after bathing with steam and being of the world, some have been for the purpose of being used for paper, but in almost every language of the world and bound up into volumes of the most scattered far and wide and of the most uttermost ends of the earth.

This Wolvercote paper mill has much to do with the great reputation that Oxford has acquired in the production of Bibles and other devotional books. Twenty years ago and more the management here hit on a valuable invention in paper making, and ever since their "India paper" has been the envy and the puzzle of manufacturers all over the kingdom. There are said to be only three persons living who know the secret of its make, and, though the process has never been legally protected and the world is free to imitate the extremely thin, but thoroughly opaque and wonderfully strong and durable, paper on the best Oxford Bibles if they only know how, all the world has hitherto quite failed to do so.

It is as thin as tissue, but perfectly opaque and so strong that a strip of it three inches wide has proved to be capable of sustaining a weight of a hundredweight. Over 100 works and editions are now printed on this paper. This special advantage has very largely helped Oxford to retain the leading position which it originally gained by being nearly the first, if not quite the first, printer of books in the kingdom and by the prestige of its name.—Chambers' Journal.

The Ladies of Constantinople.

It was amusing to see negroes with the thickest of lips veiled. All the pretty faces were more or less painted and the eyelids and eyebrows penciled. The quality of the paint showed the quality of the lady. Poor women daub themselves with horrid pigments. No Turkish gentleman goes out to walk with his wife. To do so would be counted in the highest degree absurd. At most she is followed by a slave. But, wrapped up in the ugly black silk feildje, she can go where she pleases and alone. No man would dream of looking at a veiled lady in a feridge. Were a husband to run her face, he would run a risk of being massacred. Shopping is a fortunate pastime. Another is holding receipts, which, of course, ladies only attend. Munching sweetmeats renders Constantinople belles grossly fat while still young and rather spoils their teeth. All over the east teeth are even, white and of medium size and mouths well shaped. They are months made for laughter, gormandizing and casual love. Even women are far better looking in youth than western. Those of Istanbul are the least graceful. They are seldom neat about the ankles. Their stockings are not well drawn up, their shoes are a world too big, and their gait is heavy and shuffling.—London Truth.

MULLER & STUMPF,

"There are to be no changes in the Federal offices in Nevada under McKinley's administration except for causes other than political." That is the news that comes from Washington. Senators Stewart and Jones are in a position to exact such terms of the administration and the report is that they have done so. While both Senators do not believe that a change in tariff schedules will make the country prosperous they, in common with all the silver men, are willing that the Republicans should try their own remedy for dull times and they will assist them in applying it, upon the condition, it is said, that there shall be no changes made in the Federal offices in Nevada for political reasons.

This news has had a fearful depressing effect on the pie counter gold men of Nevada. These gentlemen a year ago were among the most enthusiastic advocates of the free coinage of gold and silver. Their platform adopted in Virginia City was outspoken on that subject. Later in the year, however, when Mr. Hanna declared against silver at St. Louis, they threw the Virginia City platform overboard and came out as full fledged goldbugs.

The unparalleled political feat of renouncing in July the principles enunciated by the party in May was accomplished by the leaders with apparent ease. They reasoned that if McKinley was elected they would be given choice places at the public crib, and principles were as nothing compared to office. They promised positions to everybody who could be induced to vote against the interests of the State and nation, for a stall at the pie counter, and declaimed as loudly and vehemently against the opening of the mints to silver and gold, without the consent of the money kings of Europe, as if they had millions in bonds and wanted the value of those bonds doubled regardless of the consequences to the masses of the people. Now, branded as traitors to the State and despised by the people, without hope of office from the administration or the voters, and, stricken with remorse, they fully realize that hard as is their lot they deserve nothing better.

The conference commenced Wednesday at Pittsburg, Pa., between striking workmen and the tin plate manufacturers, and it is probable that the session will continue several days. Both sides have been gathering data for the support of their respective claims. The workers are firm and say that they will not concede a point. They demand a restoration of rates paid under the McKinley tariff law, which means an advance of from 12 to 15 per cent.

The claim of manufacturers that prices have fallen, is admitted by the workers, but is not held to constitute a just cause for the reduction of wages. The battle is an earnest one, and the representatives of both sides are putting forward their best arguments. It is probable that a compromise will be effected and a scale of wages agreed upon before the session is concluded.

It is believed that the ratification of the Hawaiian annexation treaty will be delayed by the Senate until too late to act upon it this session. The friends of the treaty while anxious to push it through have doubts of success and those opposing it are working earnestly to postpone action. A poll of the senators gives the doubtful situation as follows: Thirty-nine have been counted for ratification, fifteen against, fifteen undecided and eleven who decline to express their views. The friends of the treaty feel they have the best of the fight, but admit that it will only be ratified by a small majority.

The McKinley administration promises to admit Hawaii into the union of States and pursue a firm foreign policy in opposing Spain's inhumanities in Cuba. These two master strokes of public policy will do much to gain the plaudits of the American people and win back confidence in the Republican regime. The only fear is that the good which the administration may perform shall be used to screen it from public criticism while fastening upon the country the gold standard, as understood by Secretary Gage and Mark Hanna.—Ogden Standard.

Mr. McKinley, in several of his speeches in Canton, O., during the Presidential campaign, said the way to restore prosperity is to start up the mills, not to open the mints. Well, he was elected President eight months ago and has neither started up the mills nor opened the mints. He finds that it is useless opening up the mills unless the people have money to purchase the product of the mills, and that they cannot get unless the mints are opened.

The Paris Matin publishes an interview with Count Ito of Japan, who is now in that city, on his way to attend Queen Victoria's jubilee celebration, in which he says that Japan never had any idea of entering into a conflict with the United States as an outcome of the troubles between Japan and Hawaii, which, he added, have been greatly exaggerated.

Senator Teller said yesterday that W. J. Bryan will be the nominee of the combined forces of free silver in the next campaign.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Senate yesterday passed bills for public buildings at Cleveland, Ohio, and at McKeesport, Pa. The first to cost $1,700,000 and the second $200,000.

Five thousand copies of the Hawaiian annexation treaty and accompanying documents were ordered printed.

The consideration of the tariff bill was taken up and occupied most of the day. The schedule relating to flax, jute and hemp manufactures was the principal matter discussed.

Howard M. Ketchum of California was confirmed as agent of the salmon fisheries in Alaska and James C. Boatman of California as assistant agent.

Secretary Sherman said yesterday in an interview that as a rule he was opposed to the United States acquiring outlying territory, but he regarded the conditions of the Hawaiian Islands as exceptional on account of the claims of Japan. He therefore approved of the treaty making Hawaii a possession of the United States, but not to be admitted or recognized as a State.

A heavy wind storm prevailed at Louisville, Ky., yesterday morning. Several houses were blown down and others unroofed, but no fatalities occurred. At English, Indiana, the Court House was damaged and a south-bound train near Bloomington was struck by lightning, injuring the Conductor. At New Albany the damage was $10,000. The residence of J. S. Trahl, a farmer near Irvington, was wrecked, killing his 18-year-old son and the servant girl was so badly injured by falling timbers that she lived only a few hours.

The grain fields throughout the country have been laid low and badly damaged.

Senator Davis, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Federal Relations, says that he will not make any effort to press the Hawaiian treaty to final consideration this session. He says the opposition to the treaty is too formidable, but it has been made evident that it is determined. The treaty will be reported to the Senate and will be formally taken up so as to have it well to the front at the beginning of next session. He believes there will be no trouble in getting a ratification resolution through the committee, and does not think the ex-Queen will be given a hearing.

The Hoffman inquest proceeded at San Francisco yesterday slowly. Mrs. Dora Hoffman, wife of deceased, was on the stand and testified as to his family relations and the unfriendly feeling between the deceased and his mother-in-law. It was shown that Fiegel was seen on a car on that fatal evening at 6:24 and subsequently on the San Rafael boat.

Mary Avery of Nevada City while removing a loaded shogun Thursday evening belonging to her brother, let it fall and the hammer struck a step, discharging the gun. The whole charge struck her right arm near the shoulder, making amputation necessary.

Charles D. Collins, who was assaulted and robbed at St. Louis a few nights ago, is still in a critical condition. Ensey's friends, the man charged with being Collins' assailant, do not believe him guilty, and claim that Collins did not have $6,000 on his person.

Thomas Dalk, a 24-year-old outlaw, was executed at Zebulon, Ga., yesterday at 2:36. Four thousand people were present to witness the hanging, but were prevented by walls of bagging around the scaffold. He died game.

J. S. Oude and Walter R. Russell while out camping near Chico, engaged in a quarrel and the latter attacked the former, who shot Russell. Oude was arrested and will be held to await the result of Russell's injuries.

John O. Shriver and E. J. Edwards, who were arrested and charged with contempt of court for refusing to answer questions during the sugar trust investigation at Washington D. C., were acquitted and discharged.

George W. Parsons, Secretary of the Los Angeles Mining Exchange, was assaulted by a masked highwayman on Thursday night in that city. He showed fight and was fired at twice, but the robber let him alone.

More details of the earthquake in India give the conditions as appalling. Buildings have collapsed and the loss of food supplies creates great distress. The shocks still continue. Heavy rains are in progress.

Robert Cook of Boston will walk from Pittsburg to Cincinnati, a distance of 400 miles on water. He is an inventor of a pair of shoes with which he claims he can accomplish the feat.

Ex-President Ohas. W. Spaulding of the Globe Savings Bank of Chicago, charged with embezzlement, was acquitted yesterday by a jury.

The Endeavor Convention. Considerable interest is being awakened in the Christian Endeavor Convention which commences in San Francisco July 7-13.

From thirty to forty thousand Endeavorers are expected from every part of the world. The railroad companies have made very liberal rates. The round trip tickets from Reno to San Francisco are $13 40, and are good from June 29th to August 15. These rates are also available for those who are not Endeavorers. Excursions have been arranged on very reasonable terms to San Jose, Del Monte, Santa Cruz, Los Angeles and other places. So our young folks can enjoy a delightful outing besides getting the wonderful help which always comes from such gatherings.

THE OLD TREE.

Wave not so sadly in the wind,
Thou old and leafless tree,
Nor sob that summer nevermore
Can beauty bring to thee,
That but a desolation thou
Must stand upon the sea.

The inspirations of the spring
Long years were at thy heart,
Thou gav'st through many a summer
Space
Grand images to art.
Old tree, thou acted'st gloriously
Within the world thy part.

Then sigh not such a mournful dirge.
Yet if thy voice must be
Like anthems let the undertone
Be breathed exultingly.
For there was not a wasted life
Magnificent old tree!

Man, white-haired man, if thou hast done
Bravely in life thy part,
If thou luminously hast made
Thy music in thy heart,
Say, why shouldst thou at death's cold
Whisper
In grief and terror start?

Oh, stand beside the grand old tree,
And, gazing on its dim,
Sagging trunk, lift bravely up
Thy last and bravest hymn,
For thou hast nobly done thy part.
What more can a cherubim?
—W. R. Wallace in New York Ledger.

THE FIRST LIGHTHOUSES.

They Were an Outgrowth of the Beacon Fires on Headlands.

Lieutenant John M. Elliott, U. S. Navy, writes for St. Nicholas a paper on light houses, entitled, "The Lights That Came in the Night." Lieutenant Elliott says:

"We are sailing upon the ocean and the stars are our guides. In the olden times, when the compass was a new and unknown instrument, the sailors used a motionless pole to mark the stars and a light in the sky to mark the land. The rising and setting of the stars distinguished the hours of the night. When the stars came near the land, the lights of the land were not sufficiently bright to guide them. Lights in their own right, in the night, lights and lights spread under the water, while a suspected current sweep the trail clear of danger.

Every day, ships were sent along the coast for centuries before a plan system of marking dangerous places was invented. The early mariners were bold and reckless rovers, and then half pirates, who seldom cared a fig for the course along which they sailed, and could not have established lights and landmarks on them had they tried to do so. The idea began to grow, then, of a system of light houses was when the mariners with whom the reckless rovers traded in those dark and perilous seasons near the harbor began to guide the ships into port by day and by night for their guidance at night. At such a harbor guide had to be a light landmark in the daytime and a light by night, it soon took on a second shape—a tower on which could be built a fire, and such a tower was usually built of stone.

This method of guiding ships into the ports which they sought was scarcely established before human wickedness used it as a means for their destruction. Bands of robbers, or, as they came to be called, "wreckers," would hide themselves somewhere near the haven sought by a richly laden vessel, and, after overpowering the fire keepers, would extinguish the beacon fire on the night on which the ship was expected. Then they would light another fire near some treacherous reef. The mariner, sailing boldly toward the false light, would dash his vessel to destruction on the reef, whereupon the robber band would plunder the wreck and make off with the booty.

Kipling's Famous Poem.

It is the sentiment, says Arlo Bates in The Atlantic, and not the object, which arouses sympathy and kindles the imagination. No mistake could be more complete than to suppose that in this poem is to be found any argument in favor of the use of machinery as material for poetry. In "McAndrew's Hymn" it is the character of the stanch old engineer and his feelings by which the reader is moved. The wonders of the great engine are a hindrance, and not a help, if they are looked at in any way other than through the eyes of McAndrew. The piece succeeds or fails to the degree in which it makes his emotion real and contagious to the reader, and that, too, as emotion pure and simple, quite without regard to what has excited it. In so far as the attention is caught by telling, crude, throws, feeding pump and "panda dynamo"—finely suggestive as is the epithet in this last—the emotional effect is weakened at the expense of the intellectual.

The Viavi Cause.

It is impossible to take Viavi into the system without benefit. It is purely vegetable and as a nerve and tissue builder has no equal. It can be used with perfect safety by the most delicate, and is used upon the smallest children.

The Senate is making good progress with the tariff bill. The measure, as amended by the Republicans in the Senate, differs in many respects from the bill passed by the Republicans in the House, but both are satisfactory to the trusts and syndicates, and one or the other of them will, therefore, become a law.

WEATHER BULLETIN:

(Copyright, 1896, by W. T. Foster.)

St. Joseph, Mo. June 19.—My last bulletin gave forecast of the storm wave to cross the continent from June 25th to 29th.

The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about the 29th, cross the west of Rockies country by the close of the 30th, the great central valleys
 July 1st to 3d, Eastern States July 4th.

The warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 29th, the great central valleys July 1st, Eastern States 3d. The cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about July
 the 2d, the great central valleys 4th, Eastern States July 6th.

The above described disturbance will occur during the high temperature storm period, and therefore, while the fluctuations in temperature will be about as usual in July weather, the average temperature of this storm wave will range above the normal.

This disturbance comes in one of the principal rain periods, and showers will occur more generally than will be the average of this June. Many showers will fall in the upper Missouri
 upper Mississippi and lower Ohio valleys and in the southeastern States, while in the New England States and Texas good rains will not be so common.

The temperature of the week ending June the 26th will average about or a little above normal as a general average. In the New England States
 the average will be considerably above,
 and in the southeastern States considerably below.

The rainfall of the week ending June
 the 26th, will be generally below normal.

Next week's bulletin will give general features of July weather. That is the important corn month, and the weather will be of the unusual kind,
 particularly in the corn belt.

THE MUSICAL.

Mrs. Cora Peek's Pupils Give an Enjoyable Entertainment.

A good audience gathered at the Pavilion last evening at the Commencement exercises of Mrs. Cora Peek's musical pupils. The programme was choice and highly enjoyed by all present.
 Especial mention is due the little pupils of the class as they acquitted themselves with marked ability. Mrs.
 Peek's patrons were well pleased to note the progress of their children and she was the recipient of congratulations and many compliments.

After the program had been concluded the floor was cleared and every one present given an opportunity to enjoy an hour or two's dancing, and a merry crowd took advantage of the occasion and danced until 1 o'clock, when Mrs. Peek's musical and social party was voted one of the most enjoyable entertainments given in Reno
 in a long time.

District Court.

The Foley estate case still occupies the attention of the District Court and from present indications it will probably continue a portion of next week.
 The principal witness so far for the Eastern heirs seems to have been W.
 E. F. Deal, the attorney for Mrs.
 Oscar Smith's interest. He was on the stand for some time Thursday and a good part of the day yesterday and judging from his answers, the apparent confusion quite frequently shown and his appeal to the Court for protection, even lawyers of eminent standing can get rattled and be made to appear somewhat doubtful as to their knowledge of circumstances
 when cross-examined by astute attorneys, as well as a novice in court, or an ordinary individual who is not fully posted on the customs or proceedings in law. It is a good thing sometimes, however, for doctors to be compelled to take a little of their own medicines and they have an opportunity then to fully enjoy the sensations. If attorneys could be forced upon the witness stand oftener and be bully-ragged and jerked up they might have a more appreciative sense of the situation of some poor witness whose intentions are honest, but who is often rendered speechless by the methods pursued or made to contradict his own statements that are given with an honest purpose. One or two other witnesses were placed upon the stand,
 but nothing of very great importance
 was elicited.

Judge Mack, presiding, has shown wonderful tact in conducting this complicated case and has won the admiration of the attorneys by his prompt and wise rulings on every point presented.

The Kindergarten.

The Kindergarten exercises were well attended yesterday afternoon and the flock of little ones under the experienced eye of Miss Nichols gave a novel and creditable entertainment. A number of mother's hearts were made glad by the quick and bright acts of little ones, and they felt that the display of aptitudes shown by their young hopefuls assured a successful future. All who attended came away with the highest praises of the progress of the little folks for the term just ended.

Justice's Court.

The case of the Bank of Nevada vs.
 Judge Currier occupied the attention of Judge Linn yesterday. The suit was brought for a balance claimed on an overdraft and interest, and after the evidence was presented and the attorneys argued the points of law, etc., the Judge took the matter under advisement.
 S. Summerfield appeared for plaintiff and B. F. Currier for defendant.

THE ORPHANS' HOME CASE.

The Teachers to Get Their Money, But Not From the School Fund.

The Supreme Court yesterday handed down a decision in the Orphans' Home teachers' case. The opinion is by Bonfield, J., Belknap,
 C. J., and Massey, J., concurring.

The Legislature appropriated $2,400 for the payment of the teachers out of the General School Fund. State Treasurer Westerfield refused to pay the warrants out of that fund. The teachers brought suit to compel the payment of the warrants. The Court holds that under the constitutional provision that all moneys derived from interest on school fund securities must be apportioned among the several counties of the State on the basis of school children and that the schools at the Orphans' Home are not a part of the public school system of the State as contemplated by the constitution. Therefore, the teachers at the Home cannot be paid out of the General School Fund. The Court
 holds, however, that the Legislature had the constitutional right to appropriate $2,400 for the maintenance of schools at the Orphans' Home and that the State Treasurer is warranted
 in paying the teachers out of the General Fund of the State. Mr. Westerfield has the decision on his side, but the teachers are to get their salaries, nevertheless, and it is only right and just that they should.

A Novel Ballroom.

The Nevada City Transcript says that Superintendent Zeitler of the Champion mine at Nevada City intends to entertain the Native Sons of the Golden West at their grand session next April in a novel manner. He will fit up a spacious chamber 1,600 feet under ground as a ballroom.
 There will be a platform large enough to allow 200 people to dance on at a time without crowding or jostling.
 The chamber has been stoped out of the mammoth ledge, leaving smooth walls and a firm ceiling. Several hundred incandescent lamps will light the chamber. The invited guests will reach the underground ballroom by a smooth swift ride down an incline. A large orchestra will be in attendance and the dance will last three or four hours.

A San Francisco Man.

Steve O'Donnell, the Australian
 heavy-weight, knocked out Aleck Greggains in the eighth round at San Francisco Thursday night. Bill
 Elmer, the pugilistic notor, knocked Jim Ryan of Cincinnati out in the third round.

Jimmy Lawler, a local bantam weight, and Jimmy Anthony, the Australian champion bantam, fought a ten-round draw. The mill was under the auspices of the Olympic Club and there were 5,000 people present.

Bryan at Reno.

When Wm. Bryan reaches Reno at 10 o'clock on the night of July 2nd, his train will be held there three-quarters of an hour while he makes a speech to the assembled people. Superintendent Ryan and other Comstock silver men will make an effort to secure cars for a special train to carry excursionists to Reno to hear Bryan, and a big crowd will go to hear the famous silver orator.
 The Comstock should turn out en masse on this occasion.—Chronicle.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J.
 Gunderman, of Diamonddale, Mich.,
 we are permitted to make this extract:
 "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children when teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething.
 It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the gums, reduces Inflammation and gives Tone and Energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price 25 cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup." 4-Jy

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison.
 Headache, indigestion, constipation,
 dizziness, yield to Electric Bitters.
